Presents

Transition for Youth with Autism from School to Adulthood: Toward Vocational and Community Integration

A One Day Pre-conference Workshop Sponsored by the Autism Programs of the Center for Development and Disability and the Southwest Conference on Disability

Tuesday October 5, 2010, Albuquerque Convention Center
8:30 AM to 4:00 PM

Calvin Horn began sponsoring this lecture series in 1998 on behalf of his granddaughter. The Calvin Horn Autism Lecture Series highlights topics relevant to adolescents and/or adults with autism spectrum disorders.

Join us at the 2010 Southwest Conference on Disability for this very important workshop focusing on the challenges of supporting individuals with autism through the transition from school to adult life, assessment, transition planning, and curriculum adjustments needed to support individuals with Autism presented by Dr. Carol Schall.

Learn about:

- Characteristics of Autism in Adolence and Early Adulthood;
- Transition Planning, Person Centered Planning and Self Determination;
- Promising Transition and Community Based Work Programs;
- Teaching Community and Work Skills Through Applied Behavior Analysis; and
- Strategies for supported and integrated employment

Dr. Carol Schall, Executive Director of the Virginia Autism Resource Center, Virginia Commonwealth University (VCU) She is also a trainer for the Positive Behavior Support project with the partnership for People with Disabilities at VCU and principal investigator for the VCU ASD Career Links Project.
